

SANDY HEART OF THE WASATCH

Exciting New Plan Revitalizes Project in Sandy's Civic Corridor

The city has been approached by the new owner of an existing property in Sandy about an exciting plan that will add additional life to the Civic Corridor. The existing project which began over five years ago originally included three to four office buildings which were not completed. The new owner has approached the city on several occasions to discuss potential uses. The location of the project in Sandy's Civic Corridor aids in the completion of the master plan for the city to include more office and retail. The owner has included these amenities in the plan along with an exciting vision of a Broadway-style theater or a performing arts center to accommodate the South Valley's growing arts population.

Mayor Dolan noted that, "On several occasions the city has discussed the possibility of a Broadway-style theater or a performing arts center being located near the south end of the valley, but funding the project was always the issue. Having a developer come forward and offer to build a theater as part of his project is a great opportunity to Sandy and the South Valley."

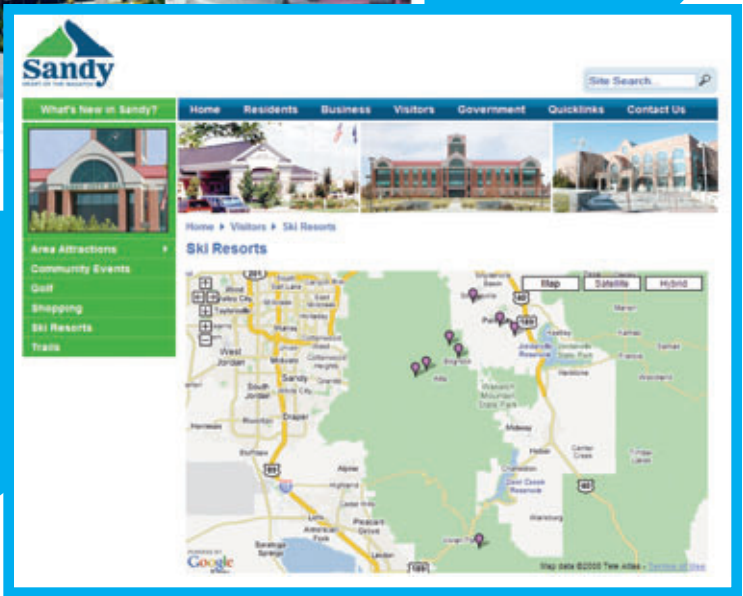

Sandy's Director of Community Development Mike Coulam stated, "Sandy has seen hundreds of new projects developed within the city in the last decade. Each one seems to complement the next by including new amenities and features. This project is accenting what is already in place and bringing a new level of excitement to the downtown area."

The location of the project fits in with Sandy's master plan objectives to add a diversity of projects to the civic corridor like retail, office and entertainment venues as well as adding density to the projects that would include additional terraced parking.

Sandy's Website

has a New Look
www.sandy.utah.gov

Winter Road Construction

The Public Works Department has received several phone calls from concerned citizens regarding rough driving surfaces on roads. Several projects are of particular concern which include the waterline project on Segoe Lily, east of 1300 East, and the storm drain project on 9400 South, west of State Street. Due to severe weather during the winter months, patches are laid to trenches to make the road driveable. The road patches will be removed and repaired in the spring when the warm weather returns. If you have questions or concerns with road conditions or need to report a pothole, please call Public Works at 568-2999.

Winter Snow Removal

To help with snow removal on city streets, residents are asked not to park or leave a vehicle on any street during or within 24 hours after the end of a snow storm. The Sandy Police Department is authorized to either ticket or remove vehicles parked on the street during this time period. As a reminder, please do not blow or push snow into any city street. This creates a hazard which could endanger you and your family when the melting snow freezes at night causing the road to become slippery. This is especially true after the snow plows have passed through your neighborhood. If you have questions regarding snow removal, please call the Public Works Department at 568-2999.

Auditions for Frog Prince

Mountain West Ballet is holding pre-registrations for auditions Jan. 24-25 for the upcoming production of "The Frog Prince." Anyone interested may pre-register at 489 West Parkland Drive, approximately 8845 South off Sandy Parkway, from 5 until 8 p.m. Pre-registration is required along with a $10 audition fee. Auditions will be held Jan. 26. Performance of The Frog Prince will be May 15-17 at the Sandy City Amphitheater. For additional information, please call Mountain West Ballet Company at 572-6222.

Sandy City has a new website. The website can be found at www.sandy.utah.gov and offers new features to help residents, businesses and visitors find services and information within a few mouse clicks.

New features on the site include a site assistant with quick reference to most commonly used telephone numbers, e-mail addresses and "How Do I?" questions. Also new is the "What's New in Sandy?" section that features the latest news and articles and includes a city calendar and a community calendar. The city calendar includes events pertaining to and sponsored by the city, and the community calendar showcases what's happening throughout the community and allows residents to post public events.

Also available online are interactive GIS maps and photo tours of the city, as well as downloadable maps of the Sandy area. The website features an enhanced visitors section which highlights area attractions, hiking trails, and ski resorts, and also includes interactive Google maps to help you discover your next favorite Sandy restaurant.

The site also allows users to subscribe to customizable e-mail notifications from the city regarding a variety of city events and services. Reporting the location of potholes, graffiti, and street light outages can all be done automatically through the website. Users can also download and fill out forms and applications for everything from job interest cards, to business license applications, or even requests for police service. Residents will also soon be able to pay their water and waste bills over the website. The new website is part of the city's overall efforts to improve communication avenues with Sandy residents.

Make sandy.utah.gov your first visit for all things relating to the Sandy community.

